SUFFRAGETTES KEEP UP ARSON CAMPAIGN

THEY DESTROY A FINE MANSION NEAR LONDON AND LEAVE LITERATURE

London, June 6.—The campaign of the arson squad of the suffragettes was continued today when the women set fire to and destroyed a fine mansion near High Wycombe, in Buckinghamshire, about 30 miles from London. The mansion was filled with valuable furniture and objects of art. The usual suffragette literature was found about the grounds.

The house adjoined the historic parish church, which is believed to have been the real objective of the women, who were, however, unable to obtain admittance.

HERE SOCIALISM GOT ITS FIRST START

VILAGE OF NEW HARMONY SAW BEGINNING OF A REFORM CAMPAIGN

New Harmony, Ind., June 6.—United States senators, governors and other men of national prominence are to gather in this little town on the Wabash during the week beginning tomorrow to take part in a celebration of the centennial anniversary of the founding of New Harmony, which was the first notable attempt in America to establish a community based on the theories of socialism and co-operation. (The attempt was a failure, though some of the principles of the founders have been carried out by the members of the community down to the present day.)

The community was founded originally by the Harmonists, a sect which originated in Wurttemberg about 1780. The founders were George and Frederick Rapp. The members of the sect held their property in common and considered marriage a civil contract. In 1805 the Rapps and a number of their followers emigrated to America, and settled first in Butler county, Pennsylvania. In 1814 they moved to this section, where they purchased 27,000 acres of land and founded a community which they called Harmony. Ten years later they sold their land to Robert Owen, and returning to Pennsylvania, settled at Economy, a few miles north of Pittsburgh.

The New Harmony movement, which attracted world-wide attention, dates from the time that Robert Owen acquired control of the community and sought to put into practice his theories of socialism. Owen, a native of North Wales, was one of those unfortunate men who lived in advance of his time. His entire life was devoted to various plans for the benefit of his fellow-men, and yet he is remembered as having been a failure.

He is known as the founder of English socialism. His views were the result of his own practical and successful employment of men in large factories, during which he came to realize the desirability of better relations between capital and labor. Owen was but 19 years old when he became manager of a cotton mill employing 500 operatives. Under his direction the mill became noted for the excellence of its work. The first American cotton ever sent to England was used by him.

Mr. Owen married and settled in New Lanark, Scotland. Here he became the possessor of one of the largest cotton mills in the country and began to work out his theories in regard to labor. He viewed with dismay the social conditions among his people and began to plan reforms. He built better homes for them, induced them to become cleanly and to spend their money to advantage. He established a store where they could buy the best goods at the lowest possible price, and he strongly urged a self-respecting spirit among them.

New Lanark became one of the notable places for statesmen and reformers to visit, and among the notable persons who went to see Owen's work was the future Emperor Nicholas of Russia. When Owen began to propose plans for the establishment of co-operative colonies, the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria, was one of those who became deeply interested in his projects.

To carry his plans into effect Owen himself came over to America. In 1824 he purchased the town of Harmony from the Rapps and here he established the first non-religious community of the New World. On January 12, 1826, a constitution known as "The New Harmony Community of Equality" was adopted. On July 4 of the same year Owen delivered his famous declaration of mutual independence against the trinity of man's oppressors, "private property, irrational religion, and marriage."

But the men and women attracted to New Harmony were enthusiasts like Owen himself, persons with entirely impractical ideas and advantages of every sort. After several years of hard work Mr. Owen abandoned all hope of success here. He returned to London and spent the remainder of his life in writing and working for socialism and co-operation. He brought about shorter hours for factory workers and served to uplift the working classes by his constant and generous labors.

Despite the failure of his first plans the community of New Harmony still exists as a monument to Mr. Owen's philanthropy. Though many of the socialistic theories on religion and other subjects have been abandoned by the members of the community, the principles of co-operation have been carried out successfully. During the century of its existence New Harmony has been the home at one time or another of many men and women who have become widely known for the efforts to better the condition of humanity.

MRS. WEST LOSES

Topeka, Kan., June 6.—Mrs. Leulia West of Wichita, Kan., is not entitled to damages from Governor George H. Hodges of Kansas for an alleged assault and battery, a jury today decided after deliberating two minutes.

AMUSEMENT PARK PUT IN SHAPE FOR GAMES

A DOUBLEHEADER TOMORROW DOUBTLESS WILL DRAW A LARGE CROWD

Officials of the baseball commission today visited Amusement park, and with the assistance of a number of men, put the baseball field, grand stand and bleachers in readiness for the game tomorrow. The grand stand is reported in excellent shape. A large attendance is expected at the first real opening of 1914 baseball in this city.

A telephone announcement from Wagon Mound today was to the effect that the Wagon Mound team will arrive here shortly after noon tomorrow. The game between Wagon Mound and this city will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. The official lineup of the Wagon Mound team has not been received.

The lineup of the Las Vegas Benedict club will be as follows: Dr. H. A. Miller, c; James, p; Louis Shupp, p; Judge D. J. Leahy, 1b; V. Rathburn, 2b; Jack Stewart, ss; E. J. McWenig, 3b; Erle Hoke, lf; Leslie Witten, cf; Charles P. Trumbull, rf.

Among the players who will be lined up with the East side in the final game between the East and West sides, which will be played following the Wagon Mound-Las Vegas game, are Kittinger, Fraser, Vogt, Hite, Harris, Marshall, Davy, Stewart, Herzog, Seelinger, Grinslade, White, Conway, Blood and McNally.

The West side will play its usual team and is confident of winning this final game against the East side aggregation. The admission to both games will be 25 cents.

As has been the case of so many men who have risen to prominence in American public life, William S. West, the new United States senator from Georgia, began his career as a school teacher.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers gained 826 new members in April.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE

Chicago, June 6.—Improved export inquiry helped bring about an upturn today in wheat. Prices, which started a shade to 1/4 cents higher, continued to harden. The close was easy at a shade to 1/4 net higher.

Scarcities of unsold stocks had a bullish influence on corn. After opening 1/4 to 1/2 cent up, quotations made a substantial further gain. The close was steady, 1/4 to 1/2 above last night.

Although oats were easy at first, owing field conditions, the market afterward rallied.

Provisions held steady with hogs. Trade, however, was unusually light.

The closing quotations were:

Wheat, July 86 1/2; Sept. 85 1/2.

Corn, July 70 1/2; Sept. 67 1/2.

Oats, July 40 1/2; Sept. 37 1/2.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, June 6.—The market closed strong today. The best showing of several days was made in the last hour. Under the lead of the eastern railroad shares, some of which gained more than a point, the whole list advanced. The upturn was associated with advices received in Wall Street that the interstate commerce commission was hastening work on the text of the rate decision and might have it completed in a few days. London sold here, but foreign offerings were not large, and they were easily absorbed. Trade reviews were more optimistic, particularly news from the steel and textile industry. Bonds were irregular. The last sales were:
